Thirty-second Sunday in Ordinary Time

November 8, 2009

The LORD keeps faith forever, secures justice for the oppressed, gives food to the hungry.
— Psalm 146:7

NUMBER OF HUNGRY PEOPLE ON THE WORLD TOPS 1 BILLION

Geneva and Rome. Despite record grain crops, the number of undernourished people in 2009 reached the historic high of 1.02 billion, about 100 million more than in 2008 according to the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization and a coalition of religious, human rights and development groups.

The increase in hunger, the coalition said, was caused by governments' and international institution's failure to act. The worldwide recession that started last year "pushed aside" the global food crisis. While trillions of dollars were allocated to save banks and insurance companies, only between 12 and 15 percent of the $20 billion pledged last year to support agriculture in developing countries has been allocated, the report says.

The director of the U.N. food organization, Jacques Diouf, addressed the Synod of Bishops of Africa Oct 12. He said that the growing number of hungry people in the world is "the result of choices made on the basis of materialistic reasons to the detriment of ethical references. This results in conditions of unjust life and an unequal world where a small number of persons becomes richer and richer, while the vast majority of the population becomes poorer and poorer"

The Bishops were meeting in Rome (Oct 4-25) Although Diouf was there to speak about hunger and food security it was also noted that he was the only Muslim invited to participate in the Synod. He spoke of the importance of faith in building a better world.

Today's world has the financial power, technology and the natural resources needed to "eliminate hunger in the world once and for all" he said but first it must overcome the power of greed, corruption and selfishness.

"The problem of food security in this world is primarily a question of mobilization at the highest political levels so that the necessary financial resources are made available" he said. "It is a question of priority when facing the most fundamental human needs"

Diouf presented several statistics to the synod.

For the first time in the history of humanity, the number of hungry is over one billion. Which is 15 percent of the global population.

More than 270 million Africans, about 20 percent of the continent's population, are undernourished. The figure is an increase of 12 percent over a year ago.

Only 5 percent of development aid is dedicated globally to agricultural projects, although 70 percent of the world's poor have farming as their primary means of existence.

The United Nations is holding a world summit on food security in Rome No. 16-18 and the Vatican announced that Pope Benedict XVI would attend the opening session.

His/her ears will begin to function and he/she will be able to hear his/her mother's heartbeat as well as external noises like music. His/her nostrils & facial expressions can be seen via ultra sound. Nutrients consumed by mother are passed on to baby in an hour or two.
